Philae Temple: this is dedicated to the goddess Isis and it's a temple that tells one of the most famous Egyptian mythology of Isis and how she brought her beloved husband back to life, the birth of her son Horus and mummified Osiris after death. The temple was moved to a small island called Agilika after building the High Dam to preserve it from the flood and originally it was built during the reign of Ptolemy II (Egypt's Greco-Roman Period). It distinguishes itself now with its location that overlooks the Nile. Take your friends and family and prepare your tours with any of our cruises such as the Dahabiya cruise boat. In Philae temple, there were obelisks in front of the temple in the past which were removed by British Consul Henry Salt in 1918 and are now in a garden in Dorset, England.

The High Dam: It's a rock-fill dam located at the northern border between Egypt and Sudan which is considered an engineering miracle to protect Egypt from annual floods from the Nile as construction for the project began in 1960 and was completed in 1968. It was officially inaugurated in 1971 and measures 111m in height, 3,830m in length, and has a base width of 980m. The spillway has a discharge capacity of 11,000m³ a second.

Kom Ombo Temple: It is unique because it was dedicated to two Gods (Falcon god Horus and the crocodile God Sobek) and built by Ptolemy VI. Its design contains courts, halls, sanctuaries, and rooms duplicated for two sets of gods and it contains 02 parts; The southern half of the temple was dedicated to the crocodile god Sobek, god of fertility who is the creator of the world (in ancient Egyptian religion), however, the northern part of the temple was dedicated to the falcon god Horus.

the temple of Edfu (Temple of Horus): The temple is dedicated to Horus, the avenging son of Isis and Osiris, and also called "Apollopolis Magna" as per the old Greek documents because the Greeks identified Horus with their god Apollo and it is located in Edfu around 109km away from Luxor and it was one of the most well-preserved sites in Egypt because it was totally buried under the desert sands and rediscovered in the 19th century.
